

Julia Medhurst is a Writing Consultant Administrator and serves as the coordinator of oral communication programming and the Dissertation, Article, & Thesis Assistance (DATA) program. She teaches the center's advanced tutoring courses that fulfill the requirements for certification via the College Reading and Learning Association. She holds a Bachelor's degree in English (Rhetoric) and Political Science from Texas A&M University and a Master's degree in Communication (Rhetoric) from Baylor University. Currently, she is pursuing a doctorate in the TAMU Department of Communication (Rhetoric & Public Affairs). As a rhetorical theorist, her research examines the ways in which rhetorics of race, space, and class combine to codify and/or challenge existing power relations. As a rhetorical pedagogue, she uses critical approaches to tutor training to promote equity in higher education.
